HISTORY

Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASAs) are volunteers who advocate for the best interests of vulnerable children in court and the community. CASA is a national child welfare initiative that began in Seattle, WA, in the late 1970s and has grown to include more than 950 individual CASA programs nationwide. CFACC was formed in 2016 as a not-for-profit organization to join the Guardian ad Litem (GAL) Project and Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court's newly established Court Appointed Special Advocates Program (CASA) of Cuyahoga County. While CFACC currently only supports CASA volunteers, they often work with GALs in certain types of cases. This dual representation model has been shown to enhance the quality of advocacy on behalf of the children.

Since 2016, more than 100 CASA volunteers have positively impacted the lives of nearly 800 children in Cuyahoga County. Local CASA volunteers conduct independent investigations into a child's welfare and strive to provide the highest advocacy levels to child victims of abuse, neglect, and dependency while furthering collaborations with the Juvenile Court, Division of Children and Family Services, and other local child welfare providers.

CASA VOLUNTEERS

CASA volunteers advocate for the best interests of children at risk for abuse, neglect, dependency, and aging out of the foster care system. CASA of Cuyahoga County believes that every child deserves to be in a safe and stable home and to achieve permanency, a loving family to call their own. A CASA volunteer is their most constant adult presence for many local foster youth at risk. These trained volunteers are the child's voice to identify and address their needs.

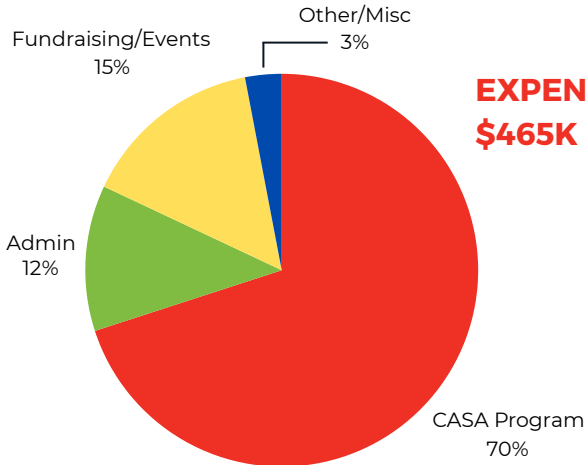

Volunteers stay with children until they are placed in loving, permanent homes. For many children at risk for abuse, a CASA volunteer is the only constant adult presence in their lives.
